

Flexibility. It's always the best way forward.

A checklist for navigating global T&E challenges.

Is your travel and expense program reinforcing or restricting your overall adaptability? Ask yourself these questions to see if your solution is the best way to take your company where you want to go.

Does your T&E program:

- Connect to an ecosystem of targeted apps that keep you on top of the rules, regulations, and requirements that come with working around the world — managing everything from duty of care to reclaiming value-added tax?
- Offer the flexibility it takes to meet local requirements and internal policies, ensuring that your long-term strategy works everywhere you go?
- Manage risk and regulations everywhere in the world (including emerging markets), so no matter where you do business, you have first-hand knowledge of country-specific tax and regulatory requirements?
- Combine T&E processes in a single, integrated, spend management solution that can handle T&E spend wherever business takes you?
- Connect to a network of travel suppliers and apps around the world, offering efficient scalability as you enter new markets?
- Connect all your current sites and seamlessly add new locations, putting consistent T&E processes in place?
- Integrate T&E data with your ERP solution, so as spending data increases, you have it all in one place?
- Give you a real-time view into spend, allowing you to forecast budgets with greater accuracy, improve long-term financial planning, and get control of cash flow?
